

Regulating corporate control of the media is essential to freedom of speech and democracy. The more independent media we have in this country the wider range of voices and options we will have.

By allowing more corporate merging of media companies we are limiting the number of voices in the media and limiting our access to information. I therefore oppose the lifting of regulations on corporate ownership of the media.